“ Meeting Toyota’s image standards required Renier’s incredible attention to detail.

Toyota USA had very specific standards for their new energy-efficient automotive line – from the paint color to what was hung on the walls, every detail was identified.

Everyone at Renier zeroed in on the specifications and was involved from the beginning with the design through to the final inspection. Renier identified numerous innovative options that kept our costs down and quality up.

When Toyota USA representatives toured the facility for the final inspection, they were thrilled with the results.

Renier’s innovative and money-saving approaches positively impact our daily operations. ”
