“ Renier’s vast experience in building and refreshing dealerships was a huge asset. ”

Renier was honest throughout the process and we felt we were treated very fairly.

We have worked with other general contractors and occasionally there were major glitches and a lot of finger pointing. It was not a comfortable feeling, and made us question whether we got what we paid for.

Renier has a well-assembled team, and having the architect directly involved throughout the project worked well. The Renier team anticipated issues before we did and had them addressed before a problem occurred.

Renier handled all the details effectively and there was very little oversight required on our part. ”
