

Integrity:

“Renier has knowledge, adaptability and integrity.”

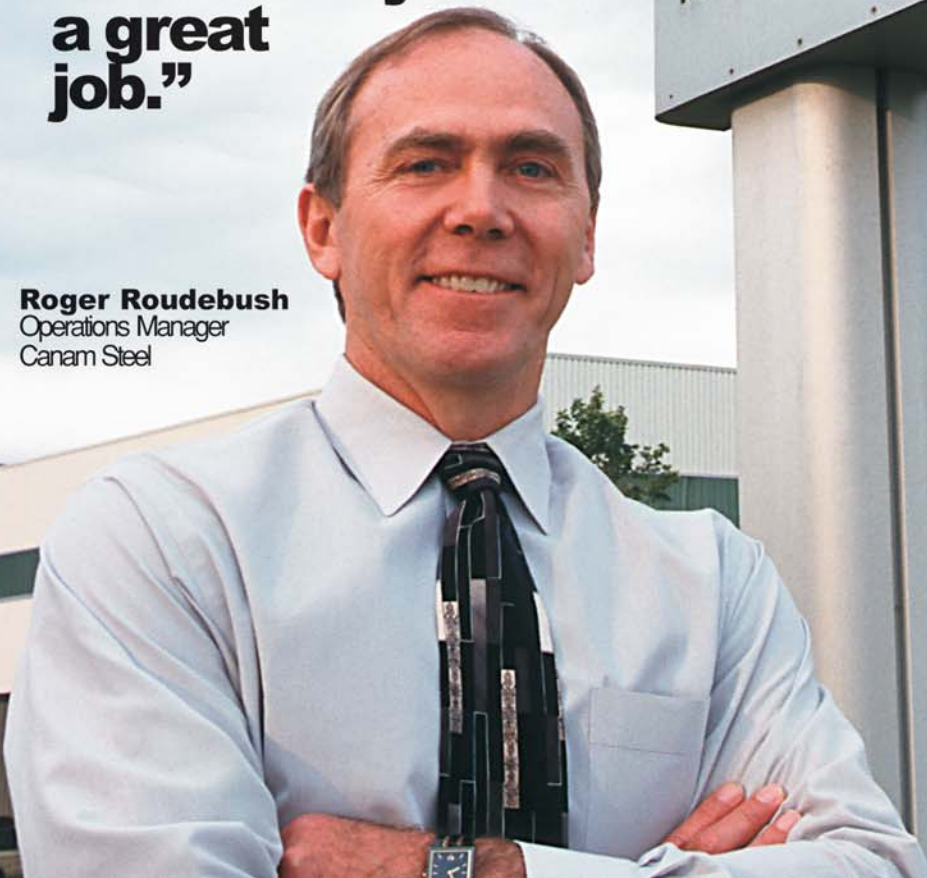

They're obviously well respected in the industry and by their sub contractors because they sure seem to have the clout to get things done.

Our project was unique in the fact we were creating as we went along...using our own structural steel, wall panels and other materials. They had to adapt to our construction methods and deal with a lot of people and opinions. They were never afraid to back up either side for the sake of the integrity of the project. They actually performed in more of a construction management capacity than as a contractor.

Renier Construction has excellent people. They dealt with us up front on everything and always had the project on track and on budget.

That's why they deserve the kudos. They did a great job.”
