

“While Renier Construction was on our project,

I learned very quickly that their philosophy goes right down through their entire staff and crew. Our 25,000 square foot expansion project presented some special complications when it came to joining the old and new buildings. And, since I’m not an engineer, it was difficult for me to visualize the challenges. Renier walked me through the process, documenting every step along the way. Renier’s project supervisor stayed in communication with me daily on status, and any problems were brought to my attention immediately and solved as though they never existed. They paid such attention to detail, I never had to ask about things. With such complete trust in Renier Construction’s integrity,

I could actually sleep at night”
