

Integrity:

This is my first building, so

I've never hired a contractor before. However, I have a lot of trust and confidence in my realtor. When he told me of Renier Construction's reputation, I didn't even shop around. I checked other projects they had done and made the decision to go with them.

My lack of experience was no obstacle because Renier gave me a step by step education. They constantly kept me informed ahead of time and followed up on every detail. They were professional from the very beginning to the time they turned over the key.

I could have shopped around, but I don't need the headaches. I need the quality. Service and quality are the most important things, so when I expand, Renier will be my only choice.
